Japanese Student Guests Look At Campus Life

An Experiment in International Living began Wednesday morning with the arrival of six Japanese students here on campus.

The students guests experiencing American college life are Atsushi Fujii, leader of the group and graduate of Keio University in Tokyo; Kimiko Koide, graduate of Showa Women's College in Tokyo; Kirofumo Makaino, student from Keio University; Yukio Yamada, student from Keio University; Ichiro Kobayashi, student from Waseda University in Tokyo; and Katsushiko Momose, student from Meihi University in Tokyo.

Stay In Dorm

The Japanese guests have established residence in Foley Hall and will room with regular session students. This will give them a chance to better acquaint themselves with people and customs. On weekends they will be guests in private homes.

A busy schedule of activities began soon after their arrival and will continue for the remainder of their two-week stay. A reception in their honor was held Wednesday in Foley Hall lounge with students and faculty attending. Their first days have been spent touring the campus and meeting with student leaders and other people on campus.

Attend Classes

The guests have been visiting classes this morning and will spend the afternoon in a scheduled recreation program. Tonight they will be guests of the Cosmopolitan Club at a picnic in a Alumni Grove at 6:30 p.m. At the picnic they will be met by the students who will be their weekend hosts.

On Monday they will continue their program of familiarization by attending a lecture by the Swedish Consul general and visiting areas of interest of their choice. The evening hours will be spent as guests of the Tea-Buddhist Church of Sacramento.

Barbeque Planned

On Wednesday they will be guests of the Japanese-American Citizens League at the home of Dr. George Takahashi. Friday night a barbeque and swim party at the home of Mrs. Frank Finnegan will be held in their honor. A final highlight of their stay will be a residence hall farewell party on July 23.

Dr. Lawrence M. Brammer, associate dean of students in charge of counseling and guidance at SSC, is general coordinator for the student visit.

Famous Satirist Is Convocation Guest

Richard Armour, author and educator, will speak at the final summer convocation on Wednseday, July 18 at 11:00 a.m. in the Men's Gymnasium. His topic will be A Satirist Looks at the World.

Author of 21 books, several of them best sellers, Armour has been called a Jekyll and Hyde because of his reputation as a serious scholar and a prolific writer of humor and satire.

He has contributed more than 5000 pieces to more than 100 magazines and his book,

Richard Armour

Writing Light Verse, is a standard on its subject.

Among other works, Armour has authored Nights with Armour, Twisted Tales from Shakespeare, Armours Almanac or Around The Year In 365 Days, and his autobiography, Drug Store Days. He is on the staff of two magazines and does book reviews for several newspapers.

Teaches English

A professor of English at Scripps College and Claremont Graduate School, Armour has taught at seven colleges and universities in Europe and the United States.

His duties as an educator have taken him to the University of Hawaii as a Carnegie visiting professor and the University of Freiburg where he was an American lecturer.

Studied In Europe

After obtaining his Ph.D. from Harvard, he did research in England as a Harvard fellow, and in France as a fellow from the Fund for the Advancement of Education. He served in World War II and Korea and achieved the rank of Colonel.

Larson Directs Original Drama, State Of Siege

State of Siege has been proclaimed by Dr. Gerard Larson, its author and director, as "the most stimulating experience I have ever had. It has been extremely fascinating, particularly with such an accomplished group."

An atomic attack threat and the effect it has upon a New York family is only the framework of the play. Lack of communication among members of the family involved is the real theme of the tragedy.

Opens July 18

The play the major dramatic presentation of the summer session will be presented 8:15 p.m. July 18-21 in the Little Theater.

Appearing in the production will be Bill Sibley as Tom; Leslie Saladen as his wife, Janice; and Bill Leary as his brother, Gus.

Parents of the two brothers, Edna and Sam, will be portrayed by Margaret Chamberlain and David Erdley. Tom and Janice's children, Karen and Carl, will be played by Michelle Cotten and Cary Noslar.

Production Staff

Members of the production staff are Joe Kaough, scene designer and stage technician; Larry Shumate, technicial director; Patricia Glyer, assistant to the director; Richard Kaough, stage manager; Ed Benes and Johnnye Lundgren, assistants to the stage manager; Mike Conners, house manager; Judy Sevilla, assistant house manager; Donna Boyde, costume mistress.

Also Assisting

Also on the production staff are Russell Howard, lighting director; Margie Kreiss property manager; Dovey Thomas,

On the outside looking in, stage technician Joe Kaough puts the finishing touches on scenery for the forthcoming summer drama production, State of Siege.

NEW STAGE TECHNICIAN FORMERLY WITH ASHLAND

Joe Kaough had been with the festival for two years and planned to return to Texas, where he had previously earned his bachelor of fine arts degree in drama education at the University of Texas, and teach high school dramatics.

Instead he joined our college staff as the stage technician for one year while studying for his master's degree in speech arts. He will complete his studies in the summer of 1963.

Dr. Gerard A. Larson, associate professor of speech arts, was so impressed with the Ashland Shakespearean Festival's master carpenter that he persuaded him to become stage technician here.

As stage technician, Kaough supervises the set construction and often is responsible for the set design. He is overseer of all productions, directing students participating in workshops and summer volunteers.

Designed Original Set

Presently he is working on the summer session's major dramatic production, State of Siege. Because the play is an original by Dr. Larson, who is also directing the production, Kaough was able to demonstrate his ability in designing original sets rather than redesigning a set for a frequently performed production.

On June 18, he began the construction. A scale model was constructed in order to correctly conceive the finished product. Because the weather has been agreeable, the crew has had the advantage of working outdoors.

Construction Is Smooth

"If construction continues to go along as smoothly as it has been," Kaough stated, "the show should open with the set." He said the State of Siege crew has had "no problems", not even the expected "spilled paint can."

Kaough has had much experience in drama activities. At Lon Morris Junior College in Jacksonville, Texas, he was a paid shop assistant. He designed an original set for a University of Texas revue. At SSC, he has appeared in John Brown's Body and Midsummer Night's Dream.

He is being assisted by Mrs. Finnegan, chairman of the International Committee of the Sacramento Chapter, American Red Cross; Mrs. Roy Stevens, hospitality chairman of the People-to-People Council of Sacramento; and faculty and students.

Seasoned Cast To Appear In Ibsen's Ghosts

"The overpowering realism that is demanded by Ibsen adds greatly to the difficulty of the product," states Steve Harris, director of Ghosts, "but since we have an experienced cast we hope to do justice to the play."

Cast as Mrs. Alving is Linda Birchfield. She has appeared previously in Precious Damsels and House of Bernarda Alba.

Appeared In Iowa

Mrs. Alving's son, Oswald, will be played by Phil Hurlbut. Hurlbut's stage experience includes numerous appearances in musicals and dramas at the University of Iowa.

Vern Coleman is cast in the role of Engstrand. John Brown's Body, Mr. Roberts and You Never Can Tell, comprise Coleman's previous acting experiences.

Portrays Regina

Wendy Douglas, who will play Regina, has appeared in one-act plays and pantomimes recently presented on campus.

Frank Pellegrini, newcomer to the SSC stage, will portray Manders.

Henrik Ibsen's play, to be presented at 2 p.m. and 7:30 p.m. performances July 26, will be staged in the Outdoor Theater.

CLASSIFIED

Men's alterations and all kinds of dressmaking. Also hemstitching. Victoria Vander-Linden, GL 7-8598.

Enos Announces Fall Assistants

Darryl Enos, ASSC president, presented his list of presidential appointments for the school year 1962-63 to the board of directors June 11. All candidates were approved.

Coordinators for the fall term will be Al Darrah, publicity; Pat Hill, social activities; Ron Rohrer, athletics; Rick Murphy, drama and debate; Jerrold Pritchard, music and art; Joyce Easterling, publications; Dave Stanley, world affairs; Mary Alice Blake, elections; and Pat Tooney, senior activities.

Serving as supreme justice on the Board of Justice will be Al Cameron. His associate justice will be David Dudley, Laurie Sepponan, Bud Wasgatt and Phyllis Schmidt. Ray Conelly and Dr. Robert Thompson will be members of the board of judicial appeal.

Preston Martin and Dennis Sartini will chairman the Academic Enrichment Committee and rally committee, respectively.

Members on the board of finance will be George Miller and Darryl Enos. Dr. E. Beechert will be the faculty member on the Board of Directors. Student representatives to the Hornet Foundation will be Dave Stanley and George Miller.

Pam Paul and Barbara Corbett were selected as editors of the Herky Handbook and Rodney Swandon will serve the Enos administration as attorney general.

Enos stated that other appointments will be made in September.

Per Anger

Max E. Buchi

Swiss, Swedish Consuls To Be Next Lecture Series Speakers

Per Anger, consul general of Sweden in San Francisco, will speak on Sweden Between East and West in the current Government 198 lecture series at 11:15 a.m. Monday in Women's Gymnasium 193.

A native of Gothenburg, Sweden, Anger received his Bachelor of law degree at the University of Uppsala in 1939 and entered the Ministry for Foreign Affairs as attache in 1940. During World War II, he served as an attache in Berlin and with the Swedish legation in Budapest.

Anger was promoted to second secretary in 1945 and served in Cairo and Addis Abbaba. In 1949 he became a first secretary and saw duty in Paris and Vienna. Achieving the rank of Counselor of Embassy in 1957, he also headed the Administrative Division in the Ministry for Foreign Affairs.

Anger has been Consul General of Sweden in San Francisco since his appointment in June 1961.

Max E. Buchi, San Francisco's Consul General of Switzerland, will be the sixth speaker in this series at 11:15 a.m. on Thursday, July 19. His topic will be Swiss Neutrality.

Buchi was born in St. Gall, Switzerland and completed his studies at St. Gall and Geneva. He was active in banks in St. Gall, Geneva, Milan and in commerce in Belgium.

After entering the foreign service in 1928, Buchi served in France, and the Union of South Africa. He was appointed a vice consul in 1943 and consul in 1946.

Since 1950, Buchi has been Consul to Madagascar, Manila, and Manchester, England. In 1959 he became Consul General in San Francisco.

Dr. Mahmut Lacin, associate professor of government, has arranged the lectures and has issued an invitation for all students to attend.

Localite Exhibits

An exhibit of the works of Laureen Landau is on display in the lobby of the Little Theatre through July 20.

Miss Landau, of Sacramento, recently received her masters degree from the California College of Arts and Crafts in Oakland. She was awarded third prize for oils in the 1961 Kingsely Annual Art Show.

PDK Will Hear Three Speakers

Phi Delta Kappa, student chapter of the national education fraternity, will sponsor two more addresses for students, faculty, and staff during the summer session. They will be held from noon to 1:30 p.m. on Wednesdays in the Ribera Room.

Teaching Machines will be the subject of a talk by Dr. Kenneth Nordberg, professor of education and coordinator of audio-visual services, on July 18.

Agenda for the final address to be delivered July 25 will be announced later.

Warren Prentice, assistant professor of education and co-advisor of the campus chapter, has invited those interested to attend.

Westphal Named

Committee appointments for the Sacramento Symphony Association have been announced by the board president, Earl Sage.

Dr. Frederick W. Westphal, professor and chairman of music, will be in charge of the Music and Artists Committee. Westphal, the only SSC member of the association, will also assist on the Music for Youth Committee.

Drama Season Set For 1962

Dr. Gerard A. Larson, associate professor of speech arts, this week announced the drama season for 1962-63. Larson said that the season would open with the musical comedy, Little Mary Sunshine, written by Rick Benoyan.

This recent Broadway hit is an uproarious spoof on operettas and received unanimous approval from the New York drama critics. Sacramento State College will be one of the first colleges in the nation to present this musical satire, which will open in November. Larson will direct with the assistance of John Lewis, assistant professor of music.

Dr. Carl A. Thomas, associate professor of speech arts will direct a play written by a German playwright entitled Drayman Hanchel. Thomas will also direct a production of Thorton Wilder's classic segment of Americana, Our Town.

The final show of the season will be William Shakespeare's Hamlet. Dr. Larson will direct. Also included in the season will be two operas and a series of one-act plays.

A Royal Ruckus

NEW QUEEN CROP EXPECTED

By Sue Donym

Every regular session has an abundance of female royalty on campus, and so it is only fair that the members of the summer session name a few vital and terribly important queens of their own.

Faculty members would like to take this opportunity to announce their forthcoming contest to establish The Lady We'd Most Like to Grade papers With.

Another queen to be selected is the 7:30 a.m. Monday Queen who will be named by the SSC "Oh Hell, It's Monday" club. She will be picked sometime this month according to Dr. Rick Shaw, club advisor.

Dr. Hugh Merus, anthropology prof, is a one-man nominating committee to pick five finalists for the faculty queen. "It's tough making decisions on the matter," Dr. Merus drawled, "I'll be glad when I can go home to my bones."

Beauty and brains must both be personified by the faculty choice, Dr. Merus said. "However," he explained, "A pointed head will be overlooked if the candidate has a straight A average and a Phi Beta Kappa key."

According to Dr. Shaw, the 7:30 a.m. Monday choice will be picked from the 600 or 700 coeds who habitually go to their Monday morning classes with their hair in curlers and often wear dirty Bermuda shorts or ill-fitting capri pants.

Dr. Shaw said the winner will be given free one-way passage to Christmas Island and a week's paid vacation there. Runners-up will each receive two week vacations. Contestants that don't reach the finals will receive new Cadillacs as consolation prizes. Entrants must be female, and have IQ's of 50 or higher, rich fathers and 16 brothers and sisters.

Winner of the faculty contest will receive a year's subscription to the Hornet. Faculty members will sponsor a car wash Saturday to pay for the subscription.

Physical Ed Workhops Are Judged Success

Workshops in baseball, basketball and football are part of Sacramento State's summer session classes this year. Coach Everett Shelton is conducting workshops in baseball and basketball. Participants in these two groups have expressed pleasure with the material offered and practical application given by Shelton.

Coach John W. Baker reports that this year's football workshop has been most profitable to the 25 participants.

Coaches from the city schools and surrounding vicinity have turned out as well as many graduate students in physical education. George Bacon, head coach at McClatchy, High School, Don Miller head coach at Grant Union High School and George Strohmeier, former center for Notre Dame are among those attending.

Trustees Approve New Seal, Motto

California State Colleges now have for their official use a new seal and motto.

The Board of Trustees of the colleges has approved the seal designed by Darwin Mus[illegible], a member of the faculty of Fresno State. The seal portrays three ideals of democratic education, youth and its search for knowledge, the open book, and freedom for all to learn.

The new motto is Ver, Veritas, Vox, the man, the truth and the voice to speak it.

Editorial Comment

What Image Are We Projecting?

This campus has been fortunate to have several consul generals from foreign countries appear as guest speakers during the summer session. Unfortunately, attendance at the lectures has been deplorably low.

In these times of extreme international tension, it seems remarkable that so few people are interested in learning more about world affairs. It seems even more remarkable since these lecturers are well-informed, intelligent speakers who have given their time to help enlighten students concerning important issues which now face the nations of the world.

Perhaps the lack of attendance can be attributed to time conflicts rather than apathy. However, apathy is indicated when the amount of people seen patronizing the cafeteria far outnumbers the attendance at world affairs programs. Lack of courtesy is also evident when the total attending is less than 30.

There will be four more speakers appearing on campus as part of this summer lecture series. It would seem their messages might easily be of sufficient importance to merit attendance from more members of the student body.

It also seems there must be some students who have enough pride in their college to help present a more favorable impression to these future campus visitors than those impressions which have undoubtedly been formed thus far.

And There Went Out A Decree

George Orwell's 1984 here we come.

The Supreme Court has ruled unconstitutional the following 22-word non compulsory, non denominational prayer, which was read each morning in New York state public schools:

"Almighty God, we acknowledge our dependence upon thee, and we beg thy blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers and our country."

In their six to one decision — two abstained — the justices said the prayer set up by the New York State Board of Regents was in violation of the first amendment because it was "an establishment of religion."

Associate Justice Hugo L. Black, writing the majority opinion, said the Supreme Court agreed that "the constitutional prohibition against laws respecting an establishment of religion must at least mean that in this country it is no part of the business of government to compose official prayers for any group of the American people to recite as a part of a religious program carried on by government.

If this is the case, should the Pledge of Allegiance be ruled unconstitutional for recitation at schools and public meetings because it contains the words "under God"?

We concur with Associate Justice Potter Stewart, who opposed the measure.

" I cannot see how an official religion' is established by letting those who want to say a prayer say it. On the contrary, I think that to deny the wish of the school children to join in reciting this prayer is to deny them the opportunity of sharing in the spiritual heritage of our nation," he wrote.

It would be too bad if Americans had to seclude themselves before they could express their belief in God through prayer. This is the kind of 1984 we don't want.
